Pricing Models

for Full-Time Employees (FTEs)

We offer the flexibility to choose pricing models depending upon how they may benefit your business. Each pricing model offers unique advantages and considerations, depending on your needs, budget, and goals.

Apart from these 3 models, we offer the Combinations of these models according to the client's need.

01 Monthly Retainer

We offer a fixed monthly fee for a full-time employee to work exclusively for the client. This model is suitable for clients who need ongoing support and want to have a dedicated employee to handle their accounting tasks. With this model, we offer a set number of hours per week or per month, and the client can allocate the work based on their needs.

02 Hourly Rate

We offer an hourly rate for a full-time employee, where the client pays only for the hours worked. This model is suitable for clients who need occasional assistance with their accounting tasks, but not enough to warrant a full-time employee. With this model, we set an hourly rate that reflects the level of expertise and experience of the employee.

03 Project-Based

In this model, we offer a flat fee for a full-time employee to work on a specific project or task for a set period of time. This model is suitable for clients who need a specific project completed, such as implementing a new accounting system or conducting a financial audit. With this model, we estimate the amount of time and resources needed to complete the project and set a fee accordingly.

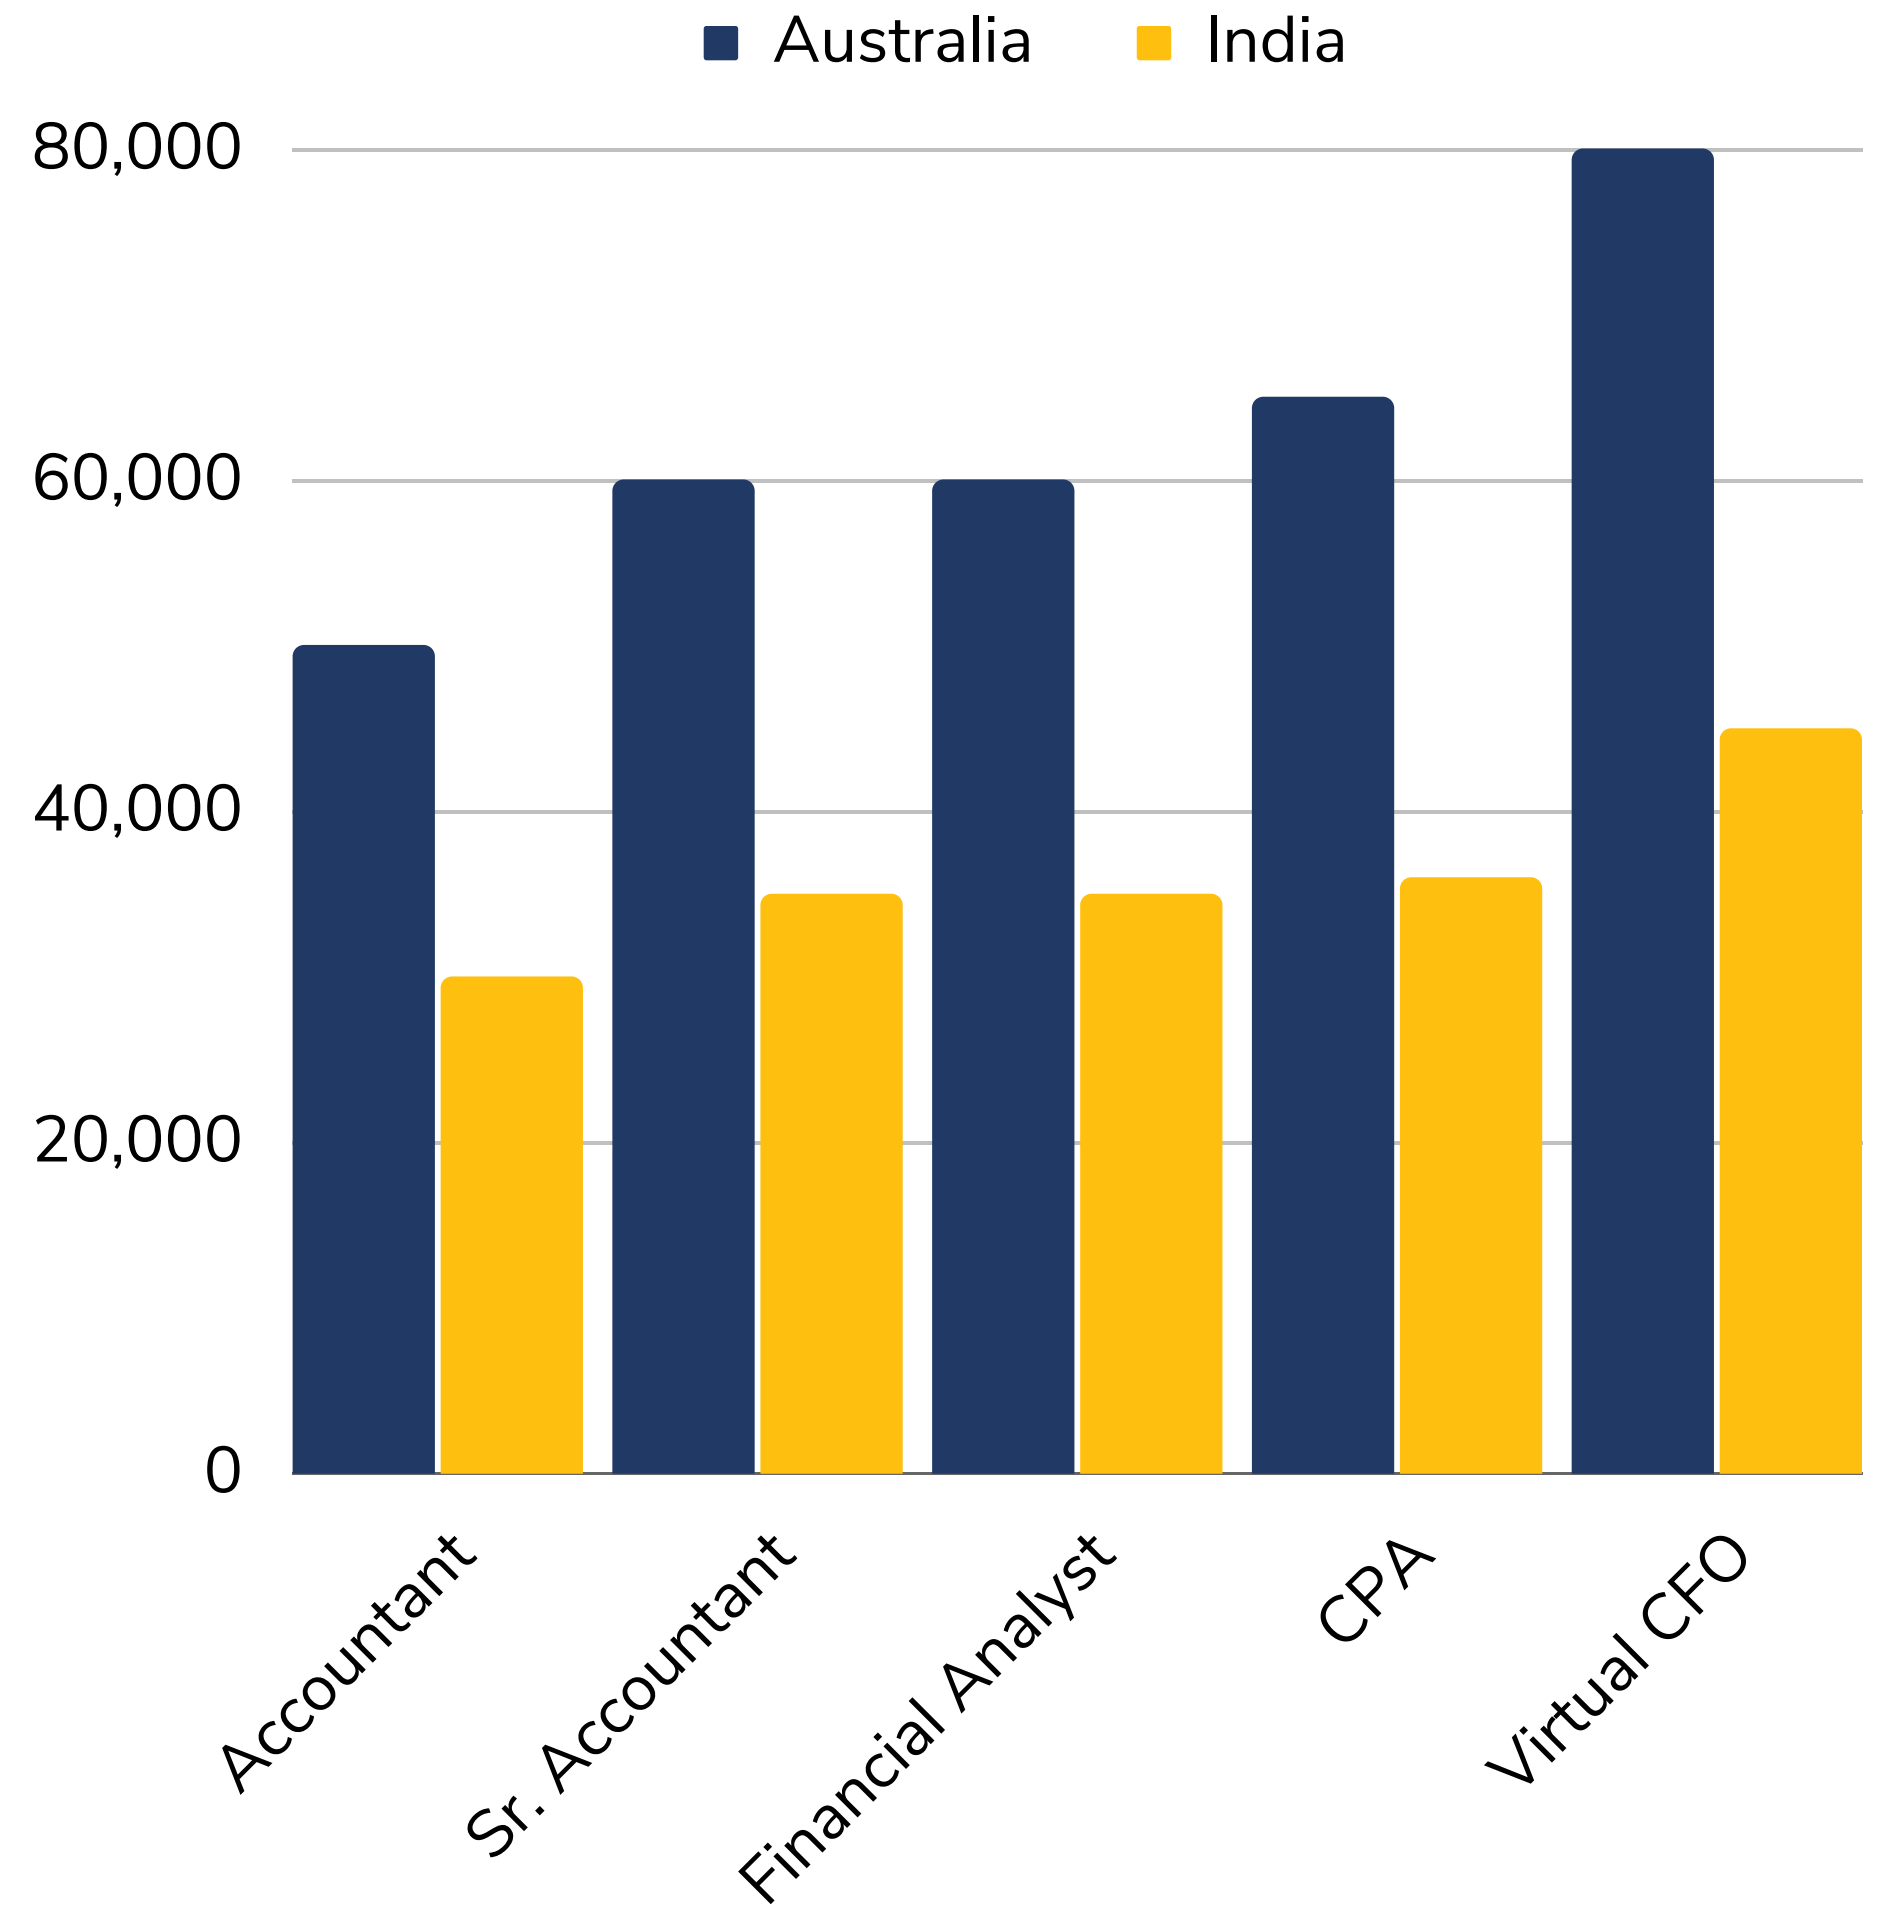

Avg. Cost in Australia vs Outsourcing to India

India has a highly skilled and educated workforce, with a large pool of professionals in areas such as accounting, finance, and information technology. Labor costs in India are generally lower than in many other countries, which can translate into lower costs for outsourcing services. Additionally, outsourcing can help businesses avoid the costs of office space, equipment, and other overhead expenses associated with hiring in-house staff.

- 40-60% Overall Cost Saving
- Data source internet.
- Actual cost may vary

The amount of cost savings that can be achieved through outsourcing from India depends on several factors, including the specific services being outsourced, the size and complexity of the business process, and the level of expertise required.

Our outsourcing services can help our clients in a variety of ways. Firstly, outsourcing can lead to significant cost savings, as it eliminates the need to hire and train staff, purchase software and equipment, and cover other overhead costs. Secondly, outsourcing can improve efficiency and productivity, as our team of experts uses the latest tools and technologies to streamline processes and deliver results more quickly. Thirdly, outsourcing can provide access to specialized expertise that our clients may not have in-house, such as advanced accounting knowledge or technical skills. Overall, our outsourcing services are designed to help our clients run their businesses more efficiently, effectively, and profitably.
